

Haute Route Alpine Trek

Summary of the Mount Blanc course

“Take the next step” our High Level Route glaciated trek is a truly amazing journey travelling from Chamonix to Zermatt.

Our itinerary connects alpine paths, high mountain huts, remote glaciers and easy alpine peaks on a journey of discovery from France to Switzerland.

En route as well as enjoying the incredible scenery we invariably encounter Bouquetin and Chamois, discover alpine meadows filled with Gentians, Asters and Edelweiss and often spend the entire day meeting few other walkers.

This trip is suitable for fit adventurous hill-walkers who would like to “take the next step” and learn to use crampons on easy alpine trekking terrain.

Making the ascent of Mont Blanc – is it for me?

The Haute Route is one of Europe’s, if not the world’s, best known long distance touring routes for both skiers and walkers, depending on the time of year. Our route is a spectacular and demanding 8 day mountaineering trip from Chamonix, at the foot of Mont Blanc, to Zermatt in Switzerland. This incredible journey through the French and Swiss Alps on glaciated terrain is suitable for adventurous and fit hill walkers, as well as mountaineers. Along the route we walk on alpine footpaths, across snow-covered glaciers and climb some easy alpine peaks

Course requirements: your fitness

Haute Route Alpine Trek sample itinerary

DAY 1

Training day on the Mer de Glace. We learn basic crampon, ice axe techniques and glaciated roping systems on the Mer de Glace, which is a short cog railway journey from Chamonix. The skills learnt on this day are the core requirements for trekking the Haute Route.

DAY 2

The first day of the High Level Route starts from Le Tour at the head of the Chamonix valley. We walk on alpine paths past the Albert Premier mountain hut. Shortly afterwards we put on crampons, rope up and travel up the glacier de la Tour, crossing into Switzerland. With tantalizing views of the summit of the Matterhorn on the horizon, we cross the Trient glacier to the Orny hut where we spend the night.

DAY 3

From the Orny hut we descend a spectacular path into the village of Champex. After a brief stop for coffee we take a short taxi ride to Mauvoisin. From here we cross the dam and climb above the lake on beautiful alpine meadows to the Chanrion hut.

DAY 4

From the Chanrion hut we retrace our steps for a short way before climbing steeply to the Col de Lire Rose. The terrain becomes more and more rugged before we gain the next col, Col de Mont Rouge, and begin travelling on glaciers again. From the final col of the day we descend under the dramatic peak of Mt Blanc de Cheilon before arriving at our hut for the night, the Cabane des Dix.

DAY 5

An early start gives us the opportunity to climb the Pigne d'Arolla, at 3798 metres. This is one of the high points of the route and gives an incredible 360 degree view. A short descent takes us to the amazingly situated Vignettes hut where we can have a welcome drink. We then have a long descent into the beautiful valley of Arolla and a hot shower in our hotel for the night.

DAY 6

Today is all about going up! From the village of Arolla we take a steep zigzagging mountain path with stunning views of Mt Collon, which dominates the head of the valley, to the Bertol hut. This hut is spectacularly perched on an exposed rocky ridge and requires climbing some steep metal ladders to gain the front door and a well-deserved rest.

DAY 7

This is the crux day of the High Level Route. We must have good weather to attempt the journey from the Bertol hut to the summit of the Tete Blanche 3724 metres. From here we may climb the Tete de Valpelline 3802 metres before descending the Stochji glacier and a final climb to the Schonbiel hut opposite the North face of the Matterhorn.

DAY 8

From the Schonbiel hut it is a gentle walk into Zermatt down beautiful alpine tracks with fantastic changing views of the Matterhorn throughout the whole journey. In Zermatt we have time for sightseeing and lunch before the taxi ride back to Chamonix.
